Seek U. S. Aid For Mokena

Take It Easy, Mister!

With schools open again motorists will encounter more children on the streets and so should be alert and drive with extra caution. Charles Hayes, Chicago Motor club, with a couple of young advocates of safety first, is urging motorists to drive carefully. Parents and teachers also have a word for the children—that they too use care and caution in crossing streets while going to and from school.

Mokena Grade School to Rent Textbooks to Pupils This Year

The Mokena grade school opened Tuesday with 275 pupils reporting. This number is larger than the school population last year and is expected to grow still more before the year is ended.

Because of the size of the school population first grade classes will be held in the Methodist church Sunday school quarters again this year. A new school is under construction however, and when completed will relieve the situation.

Teachers are Principal, Elizabeth Cappel; Glenn L. Miers, 8th grade; H. J. Wrath, 7th grade and assistant principal; Mrs. Jerry Martens, 6th grade; Joan Nussbaum, 5th grade; Mrs. Madeline Weber and Carol Anderson, 4th grade; Mrs. Joyce Drotts, 3rd grade; Mary Cele Burke, 2nd grade and Mrs. Minnie Pester, 1st grade.

Through oversight information concerning the rental of text books and the purchase of workbooks was not published last week and the prices contained in a flyer that was sent out to the parents were in error. The following prices on text book rentals and cost of work books are a revision of those carried in the flyer.

Grade	A	B	C
1	$2.35	$3.65	$6.00
2	1.90	3.10	5.00
3	4.15	2.60	6.75
4	4.05	2.45	6.50
5	5.05	1.70	6.75

(B) Cost of workbooks, including "Weekly Reader". The workbooks are sold at wholesale prices.

(C) This column shows the total cost of books, including the rental fee and cost of work books. It also was announced that pupils who are not renting textbooks may purchase workbooks and Weekly Readers at the prices quoted in column B.

Estimate Damage in Francis Rd. Farm Fire Will Reach $32,000

Fire causing damage estimated at $32,000 occurred Monday afternoon on the farm operated by Fred Scheel, a mile and a half west of Mokena on Francis road.

The blaze started in the barn and fanned by a south wind quickly spread to three adjoining buildings, a corn crib, a tool shed and a milk house. All the contents, including hay, straw, corn and tool shed were destroyed.

All four structures were burned to the ground. The flames also spread to the roof of the house, a two story frame structure, which is occupied by the James Davies family, and there was water damage there as well as fire damage.

The farm is owned by Kenneth M. Grubb, of Westport, Conn., a son-in-law of Mr. Scheel. Mr. Scheel estimated the damage. He placed the damage to the house as in excess of $5,000.

The barn was filled with hay and straw and Scheel estimated the damage there at $15,000 and that it would cost at least $5,000 to replace the corn crib. The crib contained $5,500 of corn, Scheel said, and he valued the tool shed and milk house at $1,000 each.

Fireman from Mokena, New Lenox and Frankfort fought the blaze but it had gained such headway before they could arrive that the only thing they could do was save the house. Firemen and neighbors emptied the house of furnishings and later carried everything back in again. A crew from the New Lenox department remained at the scene all night to keep watch over the embers.

The buildings and contents were insured, Scheel said.

Youth Dies in Tractor Accident, Turned too Short

Tractor accidents on Illinois farms take a heavy toll each year in death and injury.

The most recent of such tragedies in this area occurred Tuesday morning of this week on the Julius Sewing farm, a mile and a half east of Elwood in Jackson township, Will county.

A 16-year-old boy who has been working on the Sewing farm this summer, Robert E. Taral, also of Jackson township, was operating a tractor in the barnyard and is reported to have cut it too short, causing the machine to overturn. The youth was caught beneath it and suffered crushing injuries that caused his death a few minutes later.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Taral and two younger brothers, Wayne, 10, and Jack, 6, live in Jackson township. Funeral services for Robert were held today at Elwood with burial in Fairbury, Ill.

Former Mokena Resident Dies When Home Burns

Funeral services were held Tuesday, Sept. 4, for Miss Laura Stellwagon, 46, of Harvey, who died last Saturday morning when fire destroyed the 75-year-old farmhouse in which she lived with a sister, Mable, 41. Mable escaped from the fire without serious injury.

The house, a one-story frame structure, was located at 15741 Dixie highway, Harvey and Harvey Fire Chief Edward Muder said the fire may have started from an old kerosene stove the women used for cooking.

At an inquest conducted Tuesday in the Hallinan funeral home at 2601 Vermont st., Blue Island, by Deputy Coroner Fred O'Brien, of Cook county, a verdict of accidental death was returned by the jury.

It was brought out at the inquest that the women used kerosene lights as well as a kerosene stove for cooking.

The fire alarm was turned in by a Harvey police squad on patrol. Firemen said there was considerable jitter inside the house and that it fed the flames.

The funeral for Laura Stellwagon was held Tuesday, with burial in Lutheran cemetery, 127th st. Besides the sister with whom she lived, Miss Stellwagon is survived by another sister, Mrs. Alma Caulfield, of Mokena. The Stellwagons formerly lived in Mokena. Another sister, Emma died last year.

Hold Funeral for Mrs. Tillie Feil

Funeral services for Mrs. William (Tillie) Feil, nee Schulz late of 9360 S. Halsted Street, Chicago, were held Sunday, Sept. 2 at the Frankfort Evangelical and Reformed church with the Rev. William Reimann officiating. Burial was in Pleasant Hills cemetery, Frankfort. Mrs. Feil died on Friday, Aug. 30 and is survived by her husband William and son Edwin Wiltse and two grandchildren of Chicago.

MOKENA FIREMEN MEET SEPTEMBER 12

The next meeting of Mokena Volunteer Firemen will be Wednesday, Sept. 12. Regular meetings will be held every second Wednesday night hereafter. Refreshments will follow the meeting. The firemen also meet every Wednesday night at the fire hall to work on the truck and to practice. The firemen would like to have every man interested in the fire department come to the fire hall on Wednesday nights to participate in practice work and to help work on the truck.

Following a discussion of a possible federal grant to help finance construction of a sewage treatment plant, the Mokena village board on Tuesday night decided to delay setting a date for a referendum on a bond issue which had been planned to cover that cost as well as the installation of a sewer system.

Mayor John Scarth reported to the board that he was in receipt of a communication from the Illinois Municipal League stating that congress had amended the federal stream anti-pollution law. Under this amendment federal funds up to 30 per cent of the cost will be available to communities to aid them in building sewage treatment plants, providing such communities meet certain requirements.

One requirement is approval of such a grant by the health department or water board of the state.

Mayor Scarth and Village Attorney Raymond A. Hoolehan are to go to Springfield shortly, possibly next week, to confer with C. W. Klassen, executive secretary of the state water board, and other officials in an endeavor to get their approval of an application by Mokena for federal aid.

The estimated cost of the proposed sewer system and sewage treatment plant for Mokena was placed at $324,240 by Robert E. Hamilton, engineer retained by the village board to make a survey and preliminary plans for the proposed improvement.

Of this amount $105,000 was designated for the sewage treatment plant. If the village was given 30 per cent of this sum—$31,500—then the village would be in a position to restore a phase of the plan that it had to eliminate because of costs.

The board would like to bring connections from the sewer mains to the property line of homeowners. If this is done when the mains are being installed it will save tearing up the streets later to make such connections.

If the village can get $31,000 from the federal government to apply on the sewage treatment plant then it would be possible to proceed with the connections, it was said.

It is believed that Mokena stands a good chance to have its application for a federal grant approved by the state because the state wants to clean up Hickory creek and end pollution of that stream. Joliet is taking steps to end pollution of Hickory creek within its limits and is asking that the same be done in other communities. The state has told Joliet officials that it will take steps to comply with its request.

L-W Population Over 500 Mark

Enrollment in Lincoln-Way high school this year is slightly larger than anticipated last spring when prospective pupils registered from the grade schools in the district on step-up day.

The total enrollment as of Tuesday of this week was 528, according to Principal A. Hunter Chapman. Last spring it was estimated the school population this fall would be approximately 500.

Divided into classes the count is as follows:
Freshman187
Sophomores127
Juniors125
Seniors 89

Last year's senior class had 78 students. Next year the number of seniors is expected to pass the 100 mark. There are 127 juniors this year and even with "drop-outs" that are a normal occurrence in high schools, there will still be a class of more than 100 who will receive diplomas in 1958.

There are 29 members on the faculty, including Mr. Chapman.

Illinois Bell to Greet Public at Lincoln-Way

Ever wonder what your own voice sounds like over the telephone? Residents of Mokena, Frankfort and New Lenox area will have a chance to find out next week according to R. F. McQueen, telephone company manager for the area.

The Illinois Bell is holding telephone community night at the Lincoln-Way Community High school on Wednesday, Sept. 12 and Thursday, Sept. 13, and an electronic machine called "The Voice Mirror" will be one of the displays. Hours will be 7 to 9 p.m.

"Telephone Community Night" explained manager McQueen is really a telephone company "Open House" which is being held at the school because of space limitations at the telephone exchange building.

Visitors will be taken behind the scenes to see how their dial telephone system works through the use of displays, exhibits and demonstrations.

Included in the tour of exhibits will be working dial equipment that shows what happens when a local call is made; a display showing how operators dial long distance calls direct to points all over the country. Also, an "electronic brain" which plays tic-tac-toe against the visitors (and hasn't lost a game yet).

"Our guests," said McQueen, "will also see some of the marvelous advancements that are being made in telephone science." There will be free refreshments too. Everyone is invited. The children especially will enjoy meeting Betsy Bell, the electronic talking mannequin.

We have all been planning this party for a long time and we are certain everyone will enjoy it.

Mark Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 12 and 13 on your calendar and take advantage of this opportunity to see your telephone system at work.

Asks Support In Formation of Hot Rod Club

Timothy Noodwang, 18, of Wolf road, Mokena, appeared before the village board at its meeting this week to ask support in formation of a hot rod club.

Noodwang said that in communities where such clubs have been organized there is a noticeable decline in traffic violations, as all members are pledged to abide by all traffic laws.

Noodwang was invited to return to the next board meeting with the names of persons interested in such a club and also some more information on the subject.

Firemen Ask Village For Money Paid in By Underwriters

Under state law 2 per cent of the premiums on fire insurance written within the corporate limits of a municipality is paid into the municipal treasury.

Mokena gets approximately $400 a year from such source. At the meeting of the village board Tuesday night James Marti and Stanley Williams, representing the Mokena volunteer fire department, said that the department is asking that this money be turned over to it.

The board has taken the request under advisement and advised the fire department spokesmen to come back to the next session of the board for further discussion of the matter.

Soil Test Gives Clues to Need for Plant Nutrients

FIVE steps for taking accurate soil samples were listed here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, based on suggestions by Purdue University agronomists:

- 1—Pick an area on your farm that is uniform in color and soil texture—one which has had similar cropping and fertilizer treatment.
- 2—Avoid mixing soils that are light and dark colored, or those with a different crop history or past fertilizer treatment.
- 3—Use a sampling tube, auger or shovel to remove a small sample from surface to plow depth.
- 4—Stay away from fertilizer bands in row crops, farm lanes, field borders, feeding areas, sand ridges and areas within 100 feet of gravel roads.
- 5—Mix the samples representing one area thoroughly in a clean pail. Spread out the final mixture to dry. Use enough of this mixture to fill one soil carton.

Agronomists advise sampling soils this summer and early fall, and sending them promptly to the soil testing laboratory. This will give plenty of leeway for the soil testing results to be back in time for fall ordering of fertilizer.

Soil sampling instructions, forms to fill out and shipping containers can be obtained from local county agents or fertilizer dealers.

Soil tests are only as good as the samples a farmer takes.

"Purdue agronomists point out that soil tests are only as good as the samples a farmer takes from his field," says the committee. "Hence it pays to make as accurate samples as possible."

"Soil tests can provide a good guide for determining the plant food reserves of the soil. They can help a farmer provide his crops with the balanced fertility needed to get profitable returns from his investment in fertilized."

at no cost to you by working on an advertising program? I can't explain the deal to you, but if you are interested I'll turn in your name for an interview. I have my car and as long as I do a little work on the program, my car costs me nothing. You can do the same thing."

Naturally anyone would like a new car at "no cost," but don't get roped in on this deal, says Mr. Dalke.

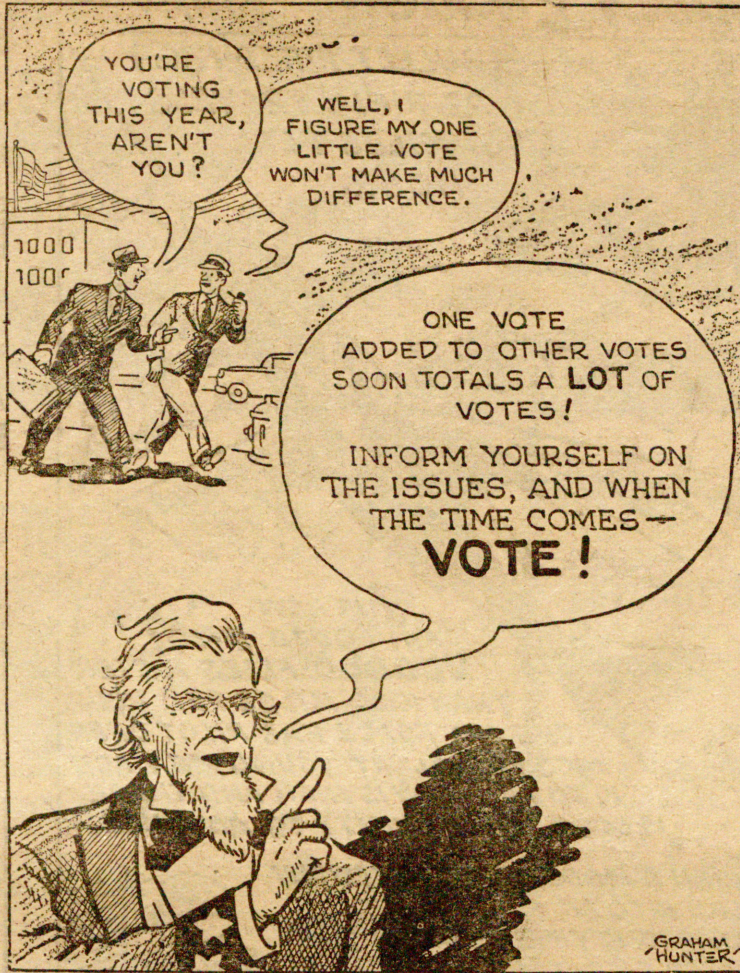

In theory, the deal sounds possible. All you have to do is turn in a name of a potential buyer. If he buys, you get $100 commission and he starts a new chain by turning in other names. If they buy you are supposed to get an additional $50 commission from their purchase.

It sounds most alluring. The only trouble is that, as with all chain promotions, it is mathematically impossible to complete the chain. Even if every adult in Chicago bought a "Whirlwind," all participants could not earn these commissions because there would be no one left to buy. Most participants will be stuck with the full price.

When submitted to the United States Post Office Department, Office of the Solicitor, the Chicago Better Business Bureau was advised:

"The plan is regarded as an endless chain scheme, the operation of which conflicts with the postal lottery and fraud laws. All matter pertaining to the plan would be non-mail-able."

If you are approached on this deal, don't forget you have to sign a contract and obligate yourself for all the regular payments if you don't pay cash, and that your chances of earning a new car under this referral plan may be one in fifty. Most purchasers will be stuck with the full price.

Car Hucksters Put New Gimick In Sales Pitch

A new racket has been inaugurated in the Chicago area in automobile selling, the Chicago Better Business Bureau warns.

The latest pitch of the horsepower hucksters is contained in this opening teaser:

"Would you like a new car at no cost to you?"

Nothing could be further from the truth, says Carl Dalke, manager of the automobile division of the Better Business Bureau.

Recipients of this "no cost" automobile must either pay cash or sign the usual time contract with promissory notes for the company's price of the car.

This new selling gimmick, which started on the west coast, has now reached Chicago. It is described as a referral plan in which the purchaser, on the missions provides names of other prospective buyers.

Actually, Dalke pointed out, this scheme which its promoters claim to be a sure fire deal to get a brand new car at no cost, is practically the same as the old chain letter gag.

Here's the come-on pitch: "How would you like to have a new Whirlwind's Automobile

A news dispatch last week reported a St. Louis boy was critically burned when he was sprayed with sulphuric acid by a passing truck transporting such a cargo.

A valve was said to have been jolted open when the vehicle passed over a railroad track and until the incident involving the boy occurred the driver was unaware of what was happening. Some 4,000 gallons of this dangerous acid was lost on the streets with probable damage to cars and other property.

Some months ago a similar incident occurred in Joliet. No one was reported seriously burned at that time but some cars, including one owned by a Mokena resident, were damaged beyond rehabilitation.

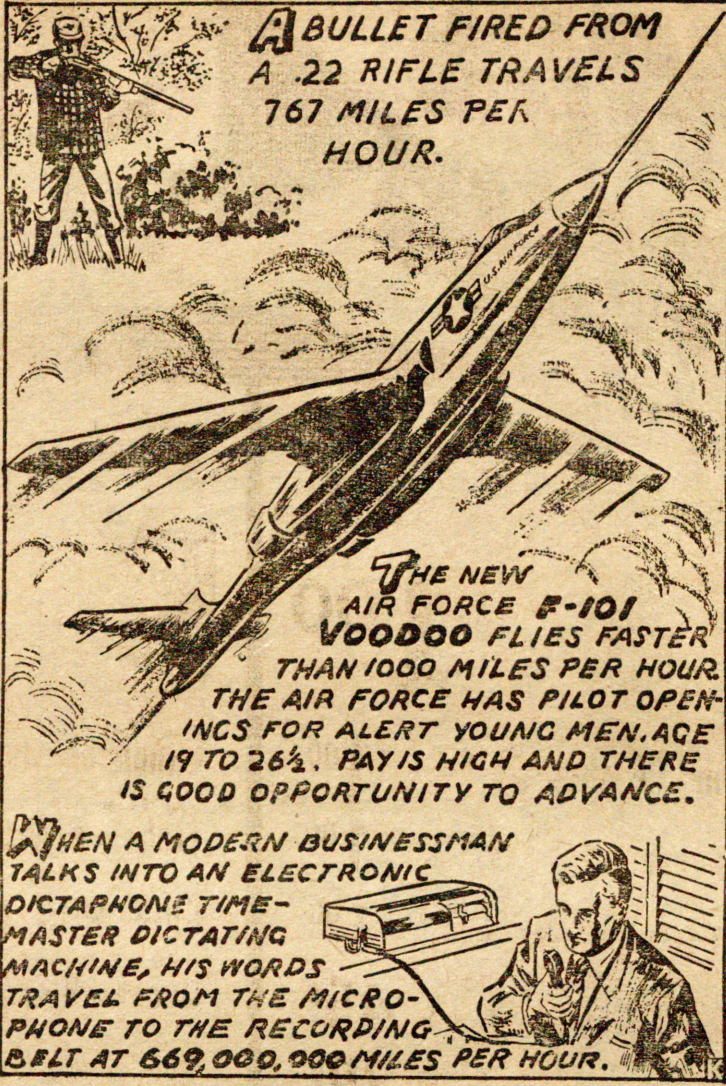

Such trucks ply the streets and highway daily, along with those carrying tons of TNT or other explosives, and other dangerous cargos.

On several occasions trucks filled with explosives have exploded with result loss of life, injury to many persons, and tremendous property damage.

Immediately after such occurrences there is some public clamor for laws which would ban the transport of such cargos by truck but said clamor is soon stilled when the lawmakers set up a committee to

A suburban railway commuter survey is underway in the Chicago area.

The survey is part of the Chicago area transportation study being sponsored by Illinois, Cook County, Chicago and the United States Bureau of Public Roads.

From 6 to 9 a.m. as commuters line up for their trains at suburban railroad stations, they will be handed stamped questionnaire cards. The cards will supply data to be used in working out a long-range transportation plan for the Chicago area.

Other data is being gathered from automobile drivers and in interviews in the homes of area residents.

The present survey will question commuters at stations outside a line around Chicago—bounded roughly by Lake Bluff, Lake Zurich, Wheaton, Mokena, South Chicago Heights and Hammond. The commuters are being asked where they started from, how long they expect to take, how far they have to go after they get off the train, and what other means of transportation are used in their trips.

HOW MANY STRADAVARIS

Of the estimated 1,116 violins, cellos and violas that Antonio Stradivari made for over sixty years, only 602 of these 18th Century instruments are accounted for today, 540 of them being violins. Only a few, if any, of the remainder are likely to be rediscovered since it is believed most have been destroyed. The violins declared genuine during the past century have all been carefully recorded and determined thru a study of model, wood design, varnish and tone.

Animals with long legs also have long necks in order to reach their food without bending their knees.

Wyoming granted women suffrage in 1899.

What do modern fire alarms and kitchen freezers have in common? The answer is "Freon," a chemica made from crude oil and natural gas. First developed as a freezing agent a quarter-century ago, "Freon" is now being used to blow whistles in fire alarms. When heated under pressure in a small container, the petroleum chemical expands releases a valve, and solids off through a whistle device. The list of petroleum chemicals which help safety engineers make America a safer place to live in grows every day.

Cancer Society Volunteers Meet September 13

To step up the cancer control program which will one day lead to V-day over cancer, more than 250 volunteers of the American Cancer society, Illinois division, will rally at the LaSalle hotel on Sept. 13.

Mr. Donald Klyczek, Chicago Heights, chairman of the South Suburban Chapter, ACS, announced that among those from this area who will meet to map future strategy for an intensified attack in 1957 are Mrs. Harry Pihl and Mrs. Karl Ekberg, Orland Park, and Mrs. Jay K. Lamb Palos Park.

Headlined as speaker for the meeting is Dr. Steven O. Schwartz, head of the hematology department at Hektoen Institute and on the staffs of Wesley hospital and Northwestern university, who will address the volunteers on Progress in Leukemia Research. Dr. Schwartz, currently working under a grant from the society, will tell the audience of the latest developments in leukemia research—a part of the vast battle being waged in laboratories all over the country under the direction of the ACS.

Donald Klyczek, pointed out that "science's fight against cancer has become one of the truly great humanitarian efforts of our time. From such an inauspicious start just a decade ago, the research attack on cancer has developed into the greatest undertaking in medical history. The coming year promises to be one of the most interesting and decisive periods in the development of our effort to wipe out cancer."

Recorded deaths from leukemia, Mr. Klyczek noted, a cancer of the blood forming organs in the United States have shown a rising trend in recent decades. In 1955, cancer took the lives of more than 3,509 children under 15 years old. About half of these children died from leukemia. However leukemia affect all age groups. There are probably 25,000 new cases a year and about 18,000 deaths.

Funds for Farm Housing Loans Now Available

Funds for farm housing loans on dwellings and other farm service structures in Illinois have been made available, according to a statement by G. H. Reuss, state director of the Farmers Home Administration at Champaign.

Loans are available to erect, remodel and repair farm dwellings, essential farm service buildings and related structures to farm owners who do not have sufficient resources to provide such housing and who are unable thru other satisfactory credit sources to provide such housing.

Applicants must be citizens of the United States, of legal age and possesses a farm in agricultural production of such size that it will be recognized as a farm unit and not a rural residence.

These loans will bear interest at the rate of four per cent (4 per cent) and will be made for the shortest period within which the borrower can reasonably be expected to repay them, but not to exceed 33 years. The loans will be secured by the farm on which the improvement is made.

Applications and further information on farm housing loans may be obtained at the local office of the Farmers Home Administration, Vincent L. Brandow, county supervisor for that agency said here today. Mr. Brandow's office is located at 224½ Liberty st., Morris. He may be contacted there in Morris on any Monday morning until noon.

Civic Pride Prompts Ridge Art Exhibit

A 300 member, non-profit organization now in its 28th year the association has as its objectives stimulating and maintaining a community interest in art, and assisting those artists desirous of further advancement.

The beautifully landscaped plaza, its miniature flower gardens ablaze with early fall flowers, will make a perfect setting for the artists who, seated at their easels will demonstrate different methods of painting.

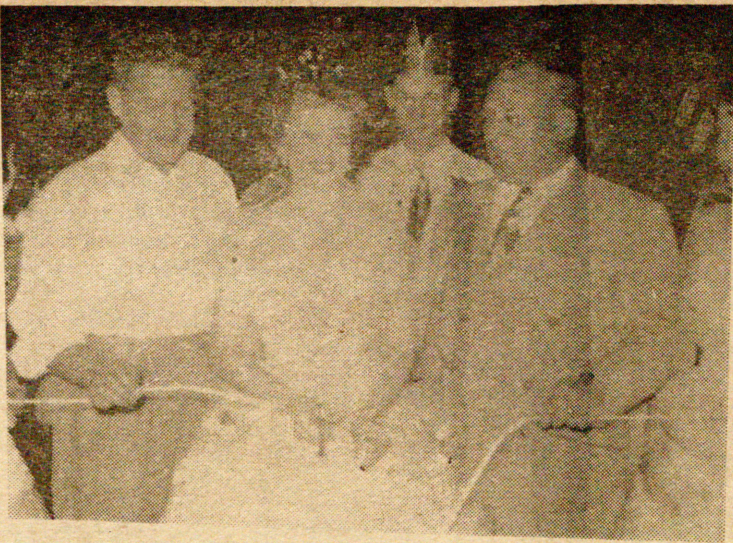

On the terraces and promenade colorful standards will hold the paintings of such well known artists as Gertrude Abercrombie, Ethel Crouch Brown, Derk Smit, Anna Baker, Gianni Clifone, Ralph Von Lehmden, Eldon Denhausen, Anthony Buchta, Massis Armin, Marilyn Bendell, Alex Yaworski, Tunis Ponsen, Fwok Wai Lau, Barbara Aubin, Stanley Mituk, J. Francis Chase, and Atsushi Kikuchi.

Dedicate All-Purpose Courts at Park

One of the pleasant duties of Mr. and Miss Tinley Park at the annual Fall Festival there last week-end was to officially open the new all-purpose courts built this summer in Memorial park. Miss Tinley Park—Patricia Cupp—, standing here between Mike Haber (left) and Mayor Frank Jeffords (right) is shown just as she cut the ribbon that had been a barrier about the courts. Just back and to the left of Patricia is Mr. Tinley Park, Thomas Mortenson. The courts may be used for tennis, basketball or volleyball. Proceeds from the Festival are used to finance the maintenance and activities of the park. (Times photo)

Suburban Schools Pass 200,000 Mark in Enrollment--Sets Record

(Community New Service)
Cook County School Supt. Noble Puffer reveals that first enrollment figures show an increase of 11 per cent more grade school pupils and 15 per cent more high school students over last year's enrollment in suburban Cook county.

A total of 159,414 elementary pupils is expected this fall with 53,766 high school enrollments. For the first time in Cook county history Puffer said total suburban enrollments passed well over the 200-thousand mark.

Puffer attributes the increase to the building boom in suburban areas and the fact that families with high school children are moving in large numbers to the suburban areas. Puffer said the increase in elementary school enrollment is due to the high post-war birth rate which he said has not decreased in the last six years.

Some 450 new class rooms on the elementary level will be ready this month at a cost of $12,151,000. One hundred and ninety high school classrooms will be available at a cost of $14,725,000.

In spite of the increased building program, Puffer said, there will be 32 rented school rooms and 138 temporary classrooms. And their will be 78 classes with enrollments over 40 pupils and 273 classes on a half-day basis affecting 9,555 students.

Plant Food Still "Best Buy" for Corn Belt Farmers

FERTILIZER still continues to be one of the best buys on the farmer's shopping list, the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee reports.

Prices of plant food have increased only 17 per cent in the past 30 years, whereas the cost of all crop production items has gone up 100 per cent, says the committee, in summarizing University of Wisconsin statistics.

The figures show that many farmers have found it profitable to use heavier applications of fertilizer during the past 10 years.

In 13 Midwestern states, farmers are using more than three times as much fertilizer as they used back in 1922, the committee says. Plant food used by the U. S. as a whole has only doubled during the same period.

This increase in fertilizer use has been due to three main factors: 1—The low cost of plant food, compared to prices of agricultural products; 2—Research and educational programs; 3—Recognition of the soil's steadily increasing need for nutrients.

The committee cites a Wisconsin bulletin which points out that research has led to recommendations by agricultural colleges for increased fertilizer use by farmers. Educational programs to farmers have helped carry the message about fertilizer's profitable benefits through all channels of communication.

Why Men Fight

Lesson for September 9, 1956

IF SOME angel who had never heard of this earth, or some man from outer space living on some planet never invaded by sin, should get acquainted with the human race for the first time, probably the thing that would astonish them most would be the human hankering for a fight. Here we are, clinging to the surface of a tiny planet, with every reason to hang together; and yet to us who are born here and live here, fights are so common they seem quite natural. People quarrel at home, they get into arguments on the street, congressmen have to be restrained from fist-fights, business men are always at one another's throats, labor and management are on opposite sides, and there is even talk about the "battle of the sexes." As for nations, a man the other day refused flatly to pay a cent of income tax, on the ground that he did not believe in war and he knew that most of his tax would be spent for war, past or prospective. Nobody wants the next war, but who really thinks it will not come?

Dr. Foreman

The Tongue Is a Fire

Why do men fight? Let us admit that there may be times when it is good to give battle. There have been evils, and there still are evils, which are not going to fold up and go away without a fight. But all the same, everybody with sense admits that a vast amount of the fighting we do, whether in our homes or in politics or business or in the mighty struggles between nations, simply gets nobody anywhere. Most fights are a sheer waste of energy no matter who wins; and many fights (like our present and future wars) are such that nobody wins. What starts all this mess? One reason is, people talk too much. James, the salty saint who wrote the letter in the New Testament which bears his name, put his finger right on it. The tongue, he says, is a little thing, but it's wild. Nobody has ever quite tamed it. The tongue is a fire, it can set the world on fire. It is a flame from hell. Of course James does not mean that that all talk is wrong. He recognizes happily the good the tongue can do. But the tongue does start fights. How many family quarrels would have died a-borning if only he and she had done one single simple thing: shut up! How many quarrels had started, and how many made worse, just by people who can't keep their mouths shut! When Hitler was about to set the world on fire, he started by talking, long before his armies took the field.

Wanting Too Much

Plain-spoken Admiral Sims once told a feminine audience in Boston that they were the chief cause of war. You have no limits to your wants, he said. Your husbands have to keep working harder to satisfy you, manufacturers have to keep looking farther and farther for the raw materials to make the things you want, and presently we get into quarrels with other nations that either want the same things or don't want us to have them; and then you have the makings of a war. Admiral Sims might have been reading the letter of James. Wanting what we don't have, wanting what we actually don't need, he says is a major reason for quarrels and fights among men. Even among Christians, because he is writing to Christians. Was the Admiral right? The reader who feels like arguing with him will have to argue with the writer James no less.

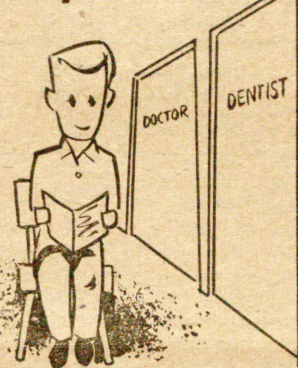

Cure for Quarrels

James no doubt knew as well as the Apostle Paul did that it is not always possible to live at peace with all men. But it is possible, to cut down the quarrels. The secret is to see things as God sees them. Let no one say this is impossible. We not only can, but if we are to survive we must have what James calls "wisdom from above." What he means is nothing weird, out-of-this-world, impractical. "The wisdom from above is first pure, then peaceable, forbearing, conciliatory, full of mercy and wholesome fruit, unambiguous, straightforward." (Moffatt's translation.) If Christians would begin by setting the example, both in our homes and in our nations, of clamping down on our quarrelsome tongues and typewriters, and living by God's wisdom, the reign of peace would be at least much nearer.

A Novel Wastebasket

DO YOU tire of the same wastebaskets? Here's a design that's different, and you can make this basket, or several baskets. There's very little expense involved, but a lot of enjoyment. This laced-together basket is a foot square at the top, and 15 inches deep. The sides taper slightly toward the base.

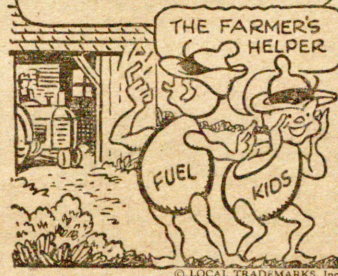

It's made of Masonite tempered Presdwood. Around the sides, about an inch from the floor, nail pieces of three-quarter-inch quarter-round. To these may be nailed the bottom piece of Masonite.

The handholds may be cut with a coping or jig saw. Use a hand drill to make the evenly spaced holes situated one-half inch from the edges of each side. To hold the basket together, lace the holes with leather thongs or other fasteners of your selection.

Wastebaskets made of Presdwood may be left undecorated or they may be painted, enameled, lacquered, varnished or waxed. This material will last indefinitely, and it's splinter-free.

Sees Need of Special Treatment For Chronic Traffic Violators

The same techniques used to rehabilitate criminals and delinquents can be used in a modified form to correct chronic traffic violators, states an article in the current issue of the Northwestern University Journal of Criminal Law, Criminology and Police Science.

This new approach to rehabilitating traffic offenders is advocated by John C. Larson, a research associate with the Center for Safety Education at New York University.

"Social and psychological factors are the primary causes of accidents and violations," says Larson. But he adds that current rehabilitative efforts do not seem to take this fact into account.

Larson feels that the personal and social characteristics common among criminals and delinquents also are typical of the majority of chronic traffic offenders, altho traffic violators have these characteristics to a lesser degree.

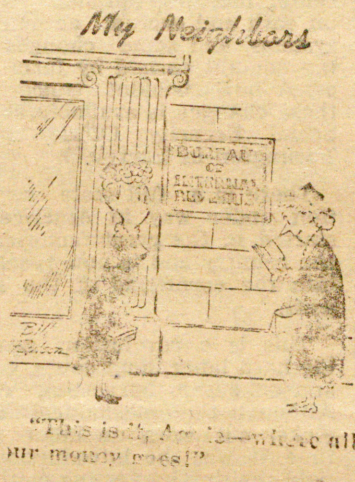

Among similarities which

Larson cites as typical of both traffic offenders, and criminals and delinquents are that all three groups behave antisocially, are characterized by a resentment of authority, and show a need for recognition.

Present treatment methods of chronic offenders—such as traffic schools, probation, or limited driving—deal only with the symptomatic results of the drivers' "delinquency," Larson believes.

Such directive techniques have been ineffective, he says, because most persons regard the breaking of traffic laws as considerably less serious than criminal violations and because public officials have regarded violations as causes in themselves.

"Thus," Larson concludes, "not the current efforts, but the group therapy techniques found to be effective with criminals and delinquents may well be more suitable for the rehabilitation of chronic traffic offenders."

Put New Life in Old Alfalfa With Fall Top-Dressing

NEW life can be put into old alfalfa fields with a top-dressing this fall of phosphate-potash fertilizer, reports the Middle West Improvement Committee.

Many of these fields have produced abundant hay crops during the spring and summer. As a result, a heavy drain has been made on the soil's reserves of phosphate and potash. So replenishment is needed in the form of plant food.

How much fertilizer to add, and what ratio to use, can be determined by a soil test that will give an idea of the soil's reserves of phosphate and potash, the committee points out.

On many Midwestern soils, agronomists recommend adding a fertilizer mixture such as 0-10-30, or 0-9-27 at the rate of 300 to 500 pounds per acre. If a test indicates the soil is low both in phosphate and potash, then a ratio such as 0-20-20 may be profitable.

If a boron deficiency occurs, some soils men advise applying about 30 pounds of borax per acre in addition to the phosphate-potash fertilizer.

One of the big benefits of top-dressing alfalfa fields in the fall is that the plant food helps the legumes store up nutrients in their roots. Strong, well-fed roots anchor themselves more solidly in the soil and come through severe winter weather in better shape.

How Soil Bank Works for 1957 Wheat Crop

The Soil Bank acreage reserve program for the 1957 wheat crop offers payment to wheat producers for reducing their acreages below the allotment. This payment for each acre properly placed in the program is computed at the rate of $1.28 per bushel times the per acre bushel yield established for the farm or for the acres involved.

Here are the general conditions:

1. The farmer agrees to put a specific number of wheat allotment acres for his farm in the Soil Bank. (New wheat farms not eligible.)

a. The minimum number is 3, or entire allotment if less than 3.

b. The maximum (within the allotment) is 50 acres or 50 percent of the allotment, whichever is higher. (Even more may be permitted under certain conditions.)

2. The farmer must specifically designate the acreage of cropland he agrees to put in the Soil Bank acreage reserve.

Such acreage must not be grazed or harvested during 1957. Weeds are to be controlled. Approved cover may be grown.

3. The acres of wheat the farmer can harvest is determined by subtracting the acres he agrees to put in the Acreage Reserve from the allotted acreage. (This cannot be exceeded.)

4. The farmer must comply with the corn allotment or base (whichever is applicable) established for the farm, as well as all other allotments.

5. The operator must sign an agreement by Sept. 21, 1956. Other interested producers may then sign up through October 22.

6. No payment will be made if the agreement is violated, and producers will be subject to a civil penalty if the acreages involved are harvested or grazed.

This program is designed to cut surpluses of "basic" crops to a manageable level and at the same time protect and bolster farm income.

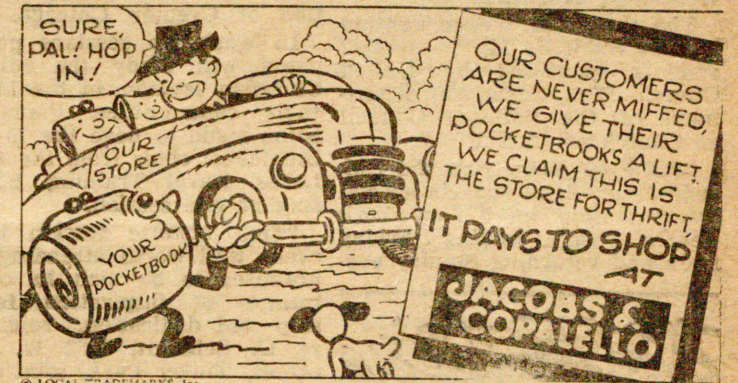

Beginning Sept. 10, 1956, personnel will be available at the Will county ASC office 564 N. Chicago st., Joliet, to talk over individual problems, to outline additional details and requirements, and to assist farmers in actually signing up.

There is an information and discussion meeting scheduled at the Manhattan Sportsmen Hall, Manhattan, Sept. 11, 1956 starting at 8 pm.

Earliest New England houses were built of thick planks instead of logs as is generally believed.

Win Prizes at Tinley Festival

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Paddig of 16929 Harlem ave., received the first hourly prize given out at the Tinley Park Fall Festival last Friday night. The young lady at the extreme right popped into the picture and then popped out again before the photographer could get her name. The same thing occurred in the case of the young miss seen behind the Paddigs. (Times Photo)

Christian Men to Hold National Meet at Cleveland, Sept. 14-16

Thousands of laymen will attend the first national convention of Christian Men in Cleveland, Sept. 14-16 and will hear such outstanding speakers as Evangelist Billy Graham, Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, Congressman Walter H. Judd (R. Minnesota), Mayor. H. Roe Bartle of Kansas City and Dr. Alan Walker of Australia.

The theme of the convention is "You Shall Be My Witnesses" and is sponsored by United Church Men, laymen's department of the National Council of Church of Christ.

"Some 400 men from the Chicago area will attend via special transportation on a New York Central train leaving Friday noon and returning Sunday evening," said L. L. McCloy, general secretary of the YMCA of Metropolitan Chicago, who is serving as general chairman of the Chicago attendance committee. Arrangements and reservations are being coordinated by Harvey L. Bishop, executive secretary of Greater Chicago Churchmen, laymen's division of the Church Federation of Greater Chicago.

In workshop sessions participants will study the role of Christian laymen in the life of their communities. Plans are being made to have the 75-voice Bluejacket choir from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station sing at one session.

"This historic session is an event well worth attending and promises to be rich in opportunities of inspiration, fellowship and dedication," said Harry C. Schmidt, 6832 W. 171st Street, Tinley Park, area chairman. Others working with Mr. Bishop on convention attendance are: James F. Vanecek, 1118 Dartmouth Road, Flossmoor, and Dr. Ralph C. Aiken, 13000 S. Maple Avenue, Blue Island.

Additional information or reservation may be obtained from the Greater Chicago Churchmen office, 72 W. Washington Street, Chicago 2, Illinois, CEntal 6-8798.

Wabash Names Richardson as Traffic Head

Arthur W. Richardson, Webster Grove, Mo., has been elected vice president traffic of the Wabash railroad effective Sept. 1, as was announced by Arthur K. Atkinson, president of the road. He succeeds Leo E. Claran, who retired on August 1st.

As vice president, Richardson will be responsible for all phases of freight and passenger traffic, including sales, service, rates, industrial development, Piggy-Back, forwarder, and merchandise traffic.

A native of Milwaukee, Wis., Richardson came to the Wabash in Chicago as a stenographer, in 1919. In his background are periods of service in the Mechanical, Engineering and Transportation departments, as well as service in a local freight office. After moving up thru various positions in the traffic department he became General Freight Agent in 1936, Freight Traffic Manager in charge of rates and divisions in 1943, and Assistant Vice President - Traffic in January, 1956.

Richardson has gained national recognition as an authority on freight rates and division, and is also nationally known for his pioneering work in the development of Piggy-Back traffic in recent years.

Highlights Of Farm Life

By W. F. Whiteside
Cook Co. Asst. Farm Advisor

Farmers in each township should take advantage of the opportunity to vote for community committeemen to administer the ASC program. The elections will be held Sept. 11 at 8 pm. in every township in southern Cook county. The location of the meeting in your township will be found in another article in this paper. Take a few minutes to go to the meeting and express your preference. Three farmers in each township have spent considerable time arranging for these elections. We appreciate their assistance and I am sure you do too, so go to the meeting and vote.

Sept. 14 is an important day for the farmers of Northeastern Illinois. A tour of the Elwood Experiment Station will be held on that day. The various soil types on the station will be discussed along with suitable farming practices for each type. Variety trials of various crops can also be seen. This includes small grains and legumes. Several ways of preparing land for corn is also under study as well as fertilizer experiments. The program starts at 9 a.m. The Will county 4H Federation will operate a lunch stand for the noon meal.

There are some recent changes in the social security law affecting self employed farmers and farm labor. The law has been liberalized with respect to rental incomes, optional filing on cash and accrual accounting systems, and some changes in the amount earned by farm labor. A new booklet concerning these changes is available at the Social Security Office, 15339 Burlington in Harvey.

There is a full scale revolution under way in America. It started in the great factories of the country and is now reaching into the cornfields of the midwest.

This is a revolution against the hard labor, long hours, waste and danger in harvesting corn. Although the mechanical corn picker cut down on labor and time, it was the introduction of field shelling harvesting methods that really started the revolution.

The corn combine is a dramatic example of automation in farming. In one day over 1,000 bushels can be picked, shelled, and cleaned in one operation.

Research by Engineer George Pickard at the University of Illinois led to important design changes in the combine, making it effective in the cornfield. Combining corn cuts waste, allows the farmer to harvest and market his corn earlier, and actually saves lives by reducing corn-harvesting casualties. This is indeed a bloodless revolution.

Feeding weeds costs money in any garden. Recent USDA experiments demonstrated this fact on soybeans. Extensive field trial showed that in the row weed growth can reduce bean yields by 10 percent. Weeded fields produce about the same amount of total growth above ground, but its all soybeans. On the average, weeds begin to affect soybean yields early in the season and cause progressively greater reductions. Weeds decrease the height of soybean plants, increase lodging and delay maturing.

An agricultural economist at the University of Illinois foresees little chance for a price increase in soybeans during the coming year. T. A. Hieronymus, speaking before the National Soybean Meeting at the University, supported his forecast by pointing out a 15% production increase over last year's crop, coupled with decreased market demands for soybean meal and oil. Hieronymus named $2.10 as the most likely average for the crop year.

Take time to teach others. If we'd take more time to show our youngsters the safe way to live and play, we could grow a healthier and a safer crop of citizens. "Teach by example, by doing things the safe way yourself."

First words spoken over the telephone were, "Watson, come here; I want you", spoken by Alexander Graham Bell to his assistant.

God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us. (Romans 5:8.)

One of the greatest social reformers was Lord Shaftesbury of England. He fought for the emancipation of the factory worker, the miner, and the chimney sweep of the nineteenth century. His concern was for the children who were forced one of the noblest chapters in into labor. His heroic fight is the story of man's struggle for freedom.

He was asked on one occasion in the House of Lords why he was so concerned with such people. He replied, "I have under taken this task because I regard the objects of it as being created like ourselves, by the same God, redeemed by the same Saviour, and destined for the same immortality."

In saying this, he not only revealed the secret of his own esteem of his fellows, but also made plain the only true basis of reverence for human life. What transformation we would see if all men, everywhere, believed as he did!

PRAYER

O God, we see how highly Thou dost regard us, for Thou didst make us in Thine own image. When that image was marred by sin, Thou didst send Christ to be our Saviour. We consecrate our energies to overthrow all that disregards the sacredness of human life. In Jesus' name. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

I will remember that Christ died for every man, woman, and child I shall meet today.

All present members are asked to attend this meeting and all new mothers in the district are especially invited to participate.

JACK MAYPOLE

Fall vacations are getting more popular each year if our recent visit to the Chippewa flowage in Wisconsin is any indicator. We don't mean the type of vacations taken as "extras" for hunting or fishing. We mean family vacations.

Bob Griffith, the big and genial host at Chip-A-Flow lodge near Hayward where we paused, remarked on the increase in demands for fall reservations running through October.

"There was a time," Bob said, "when a sort of unspoken belief made July and August the traditional vacation months. All our requests for cabins seemed to jam up then. Now we get a better break and so does the vacationer."

"Many families," Bob went on, "have found that Indian summer is one really wonderful time to be on the water and in the woods. Indian summer, of course, is not a definite season but it can be judged with fair accuracy and at least a portion of it enjoyed."

"Lots of families even take an extra day or two and combine them with a weekend even when it means taking the kids out of school for a bit."

May and June also have become good vacation months as the fishing during those months is fast and furious, Griffith added.

If you want an argument in the Chippewa flowage area just intimate that there might, just might, be better muskie fishing anywhere else. Then luck.

The world's record muskie was caught near Hayward, Oct. 10, 1949. It weighed 69 lbs. 11 oz., had a girth of 31 1/4 in. and a length of 63 1/2 in.

Most folks up that way know that date better than their own birthday. Some folks told us it was compulsory teaching in kindergartens. Some contended it is not mentioned until the child reaches the first grade.

Then there are guides who wear that the record muskie caught is not the record muskie in the water. Some contend the record muskie is but bait for those still in the depths. These, they say, have been known to rise quietly at night, peer into a rowboat and send strong men creaming back to camp to seek a doctor's care.

As yet, being a temperate soul, we have met none of these muskies but, having encountered that prehistoric

Police League Nine is Winner

The Tinley police league spotted the Beverly-Brainard nine four runs in the first three inning in an exhibition game last Sunday and came from behind to swamp their rivals in a barrage of extra base hits to the tune of 12-4.

Ronald Stege, starting pitcher, was touched for two runs in the first and two in the third before being relieved by Jerry Miller and Bob Rodger, both of whom pitched scoreless ball for the remainder of the game.

Jerry O'Neill, Les Borms and Dale Hartwig each accounted for home runs to lead the local attack.

The police team will play at Grant Park Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 8 and 9 against North Palos and Leyden for the Lohman trophy which will be awarded to the suburban Cook County champions.

Coach and Manager Bill McBurney and Joe Diamond invite local fans to attend these games, the first of which will be played at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Central States Dahlia Show to Open Sept. 15

The 25th show of the Central States Dahlia society will be held Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 15 and 16, in Horticultural Hall, Garfield Park conservatory. Hours on Saturday will be from 3 to 9 p.m. and on Sunday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. The show is open free to the public. Chairman of the silver anniversary is Bernard Wright, 1402 S. 8th, Maywood, Ill.

Conditions for the growing of fine dahlias have been most favorable this year, said Frank C. Gossviller, 2222 Lunt ave., president of the society, and between 5000 and 6000 blooms are expected to be shown. Entries will come from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Missouri, California, the Southern States and other states.

One of the special awards of the show is the James H. Gately silver cup, presented by president Gately of the Chicago Park district, for the ten largest and most perfect blooms. The Harry Franzen silver cup is presented to the exhibitor of the most perfect "A" dahlia, eight inches or more in diameter. The August Koch cup, the Sweepstakes Award, is presented to the winner of the highest number of points in the show; this is awarded in recognition of the life-long service which the late August Koch, former chief horticulturist of the Chicago Park district rendered to horticulture. Other cups and ribbons will be presented to the winners in various sections.

The Dahlia show will be one of unusual beauty and splendor. Blooms will vary in size from one-half inch to 15 inches across; colors range from white thru yellow, pink, lavender and purple, in fact, almost every hue; dahlias are also bi-colored and variegated.

Commercial and business uses are mixed freely with the industrial area being centralized along the Rock Island tracks.

Green coffee does not have a pleasant flavor, and the beans must be roasted carefully to develop the aromatic oil. This can be done either before or after the coffee is blended, depending on the method used. There are about 3,500 coffee beans, all picked by hand, in one pound of roasted coffee, and at least two or three, and different kinds of coffee go into sometimes as many as eight, each blend.

With the aid of a 50-foot weatherproof extension cord, outdoor strings of Christmas bulbs can produce a silhouette effect, for instance, in a bed of full growing flowers. When strings of lights are layed on the ground among the plants, light will filter through leaves and give them an almost translucent appearance.

What color bulbs you use is a matter of personal preference.

While some gardeners prefer white bulbs, others use bulbs that match blossoms in color.

Another fascinating way to install strings of Christmas bulbs is to use them as border lights, by stringing them into a small trench between shielding turfs and flowering border, place sockets about 9 inches apart.

The farther north a bird summers, the farther south it will winter.

A Pack, Not Pat, on Back Gave Many Famous Men Start in Life

PACK PEDDLERS

By John W. Allen

Southern Illinois University

Many years before Benedict Arnold became infamous as the betrayer of his country, he was a highly successful pack peddler. Collis P. Huntington, later to become one of the richest men in American history and a great railroad builder in the West, began his business career with a peddler's pack. Jim (Jubilee) Fisk, prominent in the development of the Erie railroad, likewise peddled in his earlier years, selling Paisley shawls.

These and numerous other men who have become legendary figures were one-time peddlers. Bronson Alcott, Yale scholar and prominent American thinker peddled for several years. Mason Locke Weems, the "Parson Weems," who wrote the biography of Washington that figures in the Lincoln story, was a peddler or 'chapman'. Weems also was a preacher and proficient fiddler for hoedowns. It is even recorded that Lincoln, just before he began his journey team, obtained a stock of new to Illinois as a driver of an needles, thread and 'notions' to be sold to housewives along the way.

Packpeddlers, followed by wagon peddlers, once were numerous in this region. Several successful businesses in Southern Illinois can be traced back to some of these peddlers who decided to quit their role as wandering salesmen and settle down.

Walking Stores

The typical packpeddler, once frequently seen trudging along the trails and rude roadways all over America, has disappeared. Some older persons, however, can recall such men, carrying their heavy packs and hand trunks slowly along the country roads from house to house.

The packs of the peddlers were marvels of compactness. The merchandise they offered covered a wide range. It included such articles as needles, threads, thimbles, crochet hooks, knitting needles, straight and safety pins, combs, cloth and hair brushes, scissors, knives and perhaps razors and razor straps. Soap, handkerchief, pencil, nutmeg grates and nutmegs, spices, flavoring and medicines guaranteed to be "good for man or beast" also were offered. Some peddlers also had Bibles with space for the family record, bull rings, calf weaners, galluses, garters and sleeve bands. One might even have shaving soap, shoe strings, bay-rum, flake white and indigo. Many carried as assorted line of dyes. If one may quote from current sales bills there were "other articles too numerous to mention."

It was a never-ending source of wonder to see a practiced road merchant open his pack and display his wares. His sales talk was likewise interesting. It was apparently the studied effort of the peddler to have each woman, for most of the buyers were women, feel that she was receiving special consideration. She was often told, "You are a lady of good judgment, and I'm sure you'll like this. Or, 'I have only one of these left, and I don't think I can get any more'."

The article being pushed might even be "a bit heavy to tote." Needless to say, all members of the family, even grandpa, gathered around to view the peddler's offerings.

The practice of pack peddling in America began in New England. Families there often made some article as a sparetime job on long winter evenings, a kind of home industry. It was naturally necessary that the things be sold. They were therefore peddled at other homes. Since money was scarce, trade was often by barter.

Have Disappeared

Packpeddlers are gone. Until 40 or 50 years ago they were frequently seen in isolated communities. Some older persons will recall the last of them, apparently absorbed in deep thought, plodding slowly along the dusty or muddy roads. These were mostly older men, some having been regular callers for many years.

The last old-time peddler remembered by the author, was a man named Charley, who had regularly visited the community for some 30 years. He had spent the night before with "Uncle" Bill Stevens, on whom he had called regularly for 27 years. He had already stopped to call the Buxtons, Millers, Barnetts, Browns and Pembertons and was on his way to see the Gholsons, Porters, Wilsons, and Allens when he paused under the shade of a tree on the school playground. There the smaller boys gathered about him and tried to lift his two heavy packs.

After the last of his calls for the day, Charley disappeared down the woodland road that led through the bottoms toward the Murray settlement two miles to the south. He must have spent the night in the woodland along the way. Such was not an uncommon practice when the weather permitted. So far as is known, this trip of Charley's marked the passing of the pack peddler in that community. In some places they may have lingered a few more years.

Pack peddlers were an important factor in the development of many early New England industries. Their prices were whatever they thought the traffic said they were satisfied with any profit from 300 to 300 per cent. Whatever may have been their profits and practices, they were once an important means, in fact about the only one, of distribution for the products of the infant industries of America.

Legion Auxiliary to Have Installation

Tinley Park American Legion Post 615 and its Auxiliary, will hold a joint installation of officers at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, Sept. 15 in Legion hall.

Past District Commander Earl Slaughter will be the installing officer for the Legion. All service men and ex-service men are cordially invited. The Legion still has 3x5 ft. American flags with pole and bracket available for those wishing to purchase one.

Outdoor barbecues and fireplaces are easier to use after dark if they are lighted. General outdoor lighting specialists point out that one easy system of after dark lighting can be devised merely by installing a 150-watt projector spotlight on a branch of a nearby tree and aiming the light toward your cooking surface. Be sure the light is positioned so that it is not directed in the cook's or guest's eyes.

Field Day At Elwood Station Set For Sept. 14

The Illinois Agricultural Experiment station has announced an all-day field meeting to be held at the research center one-half mile south of Elwood in Will county, on Sept. 14. The tour of the experimental plots will start from the research station headquarters at 10 a.m.

This experimental station is known as the Northeastern Illinois Agronomy Research Center and was established in 1949 as a cooperative project between the Illinois Agricultural Experiment Station and the Soil Conservation Service. In 1952 the Soil Conservation Service transferred the project to the Agricultural Research Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. During the first year individual farmers, thruout their county farm bureau and soil conservation districts, contributed labor to erect buildings and establish erosion plots.

The land where the studies are located has been furnished by the United States Army on the Joliet Arsenal.

The work on the center is designed to answer many agricultural production problems on the plastic till soils of northeastern Illinois. Work underway includes soil loss and water measurements, rotation studies, terracing, irrigation studies, interseeding of corn with grasses and legumes, and soil fertility studies.

The Will county farm advisor A. A. Wicklein, is planning to provide transportation on farm wagons around the 200-acre research area.

Farmers can bring their own lunch or they can buy it at the lunch stand which will be operated by the Will County 4-H Federation.

When no dew follows a hot day, rain may be expected.

You Hear Strange Things About Catholics

Yes, you can hear some strange things about Catholics.

You hear it said that Catholics believe all non-Catholics are headed for Hell... that they believe non-Catholic marriages are invalid.

Some think Catholics believe the Pope is God... that he can do no wrong... that they owe him civil allegiance and that he should have the political power to rule America.

It is said that Catholics want religious freedom only for themselves... that they oppose public schools and separation of Church and State as evils which should be destroyed.

The claim is made that Catholics pay the priest for forgiveness of their sins... that they must buy their departed relatives and friends out of Purgatory... that they adore statues... are forbidden to read the Bible... use medals, candles and holy water as sure-fire protection against the loss of a job, lightning or being hit by an automobile.

But what is worse, some say, Catholics corrupt the true teachings of Jesus Christ with the addition of pagan superstitions and practices that are nothing less than the inventions of the devil.

If all these things—or any of them—were true, it would be a pity. For at least one out of every six Americans is a Catholic—and it would be a national tragedy if one-sixth of all Americans entertained such erroneous ideas.

The Knights of Columbus is an organization of more than 920,000 Catholic men of reason and intelligence. In our ranks will be found statesmen, scientists, historians, physicians, movie stars, lawyers, educators and others representing every cross-section of American life. And for each and all of them loyalty to the Catholic Faith is the act of a reasonable man.

We are deeply interested in the welfare of our Church and our Country. And we believe the interests of both will be served best when fair-minded people know the Catholic Church as it is—not as it is sometimes mistaken to be.

If you have heard and believed any of these false claims, and want the truth, we will gladly send you a free booklet which explains many aspects of Catholic belief and practice. It will come to you in a plain wrapper—and nobody will call on you. Write for Pamphlet No. KC-1.

Indians Used Coal - - not as Fuel But as Medium to Express Art

Southern Illinois University
The Indians knew of coal and often fashioned charms and ornaments from the kind we call cannel, named for a town in which it is found in an outcropping. Some of these objects, among the most symmetrical and finely finished of Indian artifacts, are valued highly by collectors. No evidence has been found to show that the Indians used coal as a fuel, or even considered it of value for that purpose. Anyway, the sites about their ancient campfires, even those found almost against outcroppings of coal, show no waste coal or cinders that would indicate its use as a fuel.

Records concerning the first findings of coal by white men in the United States are somewhat vague and fragmentary. None seem to indicate its having been noted before the coming of the first French explorers to the Illinois country. Louis Joliet and Father Marquette are said to have found outcroppings of coal, "carbon de terre", on the hillsides along the Illinois river when they crossed the state in 1673. Father Hennepin, another Jesuit missionary, mentions coal in his journal for 1679 and locates a mine on a map drawn in that year. This mine was located on the Illinois river not far from the present city of Ottawa. Another map drawn by the French explorer Thevenot in 1681 shows a mine in the same region.

In each of these cases they are indicated as "mines" and not as deposits or outcroppings. This would imply that they were actually worked. There are also references in other records to indicate that coal was secured locally and used in the forges at the French posts in the Starved Rock area. Some of the reports of groups sent out to search for mineral deposits are almost humorous with apparent reluctance they record the fact that no gold, silver, copper or lead was found, "only coal".

The first regular use of coal in America was made by blacksmiths. Those wishing to smelt ores and secure the metals from them burned charcoal and used it as fuel. This practice was long continued, being used at Illinois Iron Furnace in Hardin county as late as 1880.

The first coal mine of record in the United States began production in Virginia in 1750. The "Richmond Coal", then widely and favorably known, came of coal on a commercial scale from this mine. The production did not begin in Illinois until 1810 when the first shipping mine was opened in Jackson county. It was among the very first of the coal mines of the midwest. The shaft for this mine really a slope or tunnel directly into the exposed vein, was against the high eastern bank of the Big Muddy river where Illinois Highway No. 13 crosses the stream to enter the city of Murphysboro. A large metal marker on the north side of the bridge approach marks the site and briefly tells the story of the early mine.

This outcropping was most conveniently located and the coal from this mine was shipped in that manner to New Orleans as shown by the port records of 1810. The claim that the Big Muddy mine was the first commercial one in Illinois appears a valid one.

Mining was continued here for many years. In 1822 the Jackson County Coal Company was formed and activities were increased. A number of miners came from Scotland and a settlement known as "Scotch Town" grew up about the mine. According to meager records and tradition Scotch Town had its full quota of eccentric and unusual individuals. In many ways it resembled the mining towns that were to spring up in the West a generation or so later. With the exhaustion of this coal outcropping the miners moved away and the village disappeared. Now it is difficult to find traces of the vanished town, once the second most important one in the county.

A few year ago some excavations were being made in the rise of ground, known as New Hill, just east across the Big Muddy from Murphysboro when one of the tunnels of the old mine was found. The entries and rooms of the abandoned mine were much as the miners had left them more than a century before. There were still a few decayed chunks of the old timbers, bits of track over which the crude cars carried coal to the barges waiting in the river, pieces of broken and rusted tools lay about, and there were even parts of an oil lamp once used by some departed and forgotten miner.

Passage ways were often littered by stone that had fallen from the roof. There was a musty smell and dust covered everything. It was distinctly an unsafe place even though guided by an experienced miner. Strange shadows from the light carried made the long abandoned mine an eerie place.

In addition to supplying coal needs this mine and another somewhat later one at an outcropping in the hills near Belleville encouraged the building of the first two railroads in Illinois. The one at Belleville, built in 1833 carried coal from the mine there to the Mississippi river. It was the first railroad in the state. The road at Murphysboro carried coal from the mine to a point just below Fishtrap Shoal, a mile or so downstream. It thus enabled the mine to continue shipment when low river stages would not allow barges to pass upstream over the shoals.

The Murphysboro road consisted of wooden rails with iron straps nailed on them. The motive power was provided by a mule and the entire train crew consisted of one man, Valentine

This small mine beside the Big Muddy marked the beginning of a great industry in Illinois. The abandoned workings still offer mute evidences of the crude methods of early mining. Though mining has somewhat declined in recent years the state is underlaid with re- it should be remembered that coverable coal and that the approximately three-fourths of world will always need coal.

Many American investors put their funds into tax exempt securities in order to avoid income taxes which strike rather hard.

There is a completely legal method by which American investors can largely avoid income taxes in the United States. This foreign situations wherein the method is thru investment in income is re-invested in the foreign country rather than paid as a dividend and taxable for American income tax.

If the income is not paid as a dividend or income, it is not taxable as income.

There are a number of Mutual Funds which invest solely in Canadian developments, which pay no dividend income, but rather re-invest the income in Canada and therefore no American income tax until such time

Put Talents to Work for Disaster Fund

These youngsters put on a benefit performance in the form of a variety show last week in the backyard of the Elmer Johnson home at 6600 Hubbard Lane, Tinley Park. Box office receipts—seven cents for adults, five cents for children—plus proceeds from the sale of popcorn and home manufactured beverages brought in a total of $5.40 which was quite a sum when one considers that youngsters under four were admitted free. The money was turned in to the Tinley Park disaster fund. The all-girl cast of the show was made up of (left to right), Linda Herre, Phyllis Johnson, Carol Pennington, Elizabeth and Suzanne Reyes, Elaine Mattson and Jeanie Rapson. (Times Photo) as the individual owning the shares of the particular Mutual Fund sells his shares and the gain in principal, is taxed as capital gain rather than income.

The capital gains tax of course is much lower than income tax.

These Mutual Funds investing in Canada, offer the small investor considerable tax advantage.

Investors have become more in development of European and and more wary of investment Asian industries due to the constantly recurring political and economic crises in these areas.

As to oil and strategic metals, the economic and political upheavals of Europe and Asia, have forced American investors to seek less volatile areas for investment.

Canada has afforded many opportunities for investment in recent years because of the impressive growth of its economy. The average American investor has found it difficult to take advantage of these opportunities because of lack of knowledge about Canadian industry and distance from the scene.

To an investor seeking growth of capital, instead of current income—the tax feature of Mutual Funds investing solely in Canadian industries, offers an interesting answer.

Canada is the best export customer of the U.S.A. and the U.S.A. is Canada's best export customer.

The growth of Canadian industry and development of their natural resources, has been at a much faster pace than that of the United States on a current comparison. This is due to the very large investment by American industry in Canada and their bringing of American technological developments to Canadian development. Production of Canadian labor is very close to that of American labor. Population in Canada has been growing at a much faster rate than is the United States. The gross industrial production has also grown at a faster pace.

The United States is fast out—stripping our ability to satisfy our need for raw materials and needs Canadian supplies of these products—particularly oil, metals and forest products.

Canada welcomes investment funds and has the type of government we understand. The tax attitude toward industry is one designed to foster investment.

On the basis of the latest figures available (1953), American investors owned 56 per cent of the oil production and development and about 50 per cent of mining developments.

Mutual Funds specializing in Canadian investments, are aided by investment management closely acquainted with developments in that country. Tax advantages have attracted many large investors.

Railroad Depot Suffers Damage By Vandals

Last Tuesday evening vandals destroyed a new telephone book in the Tinley Park railroad depot and scattered the torn pages around the room. They also poured soda pop over the telephone so that coins became stuck in the slot. The soda pop was also poured over the floor of the waiting room.

Similar complaints have been made regarding stations at Mokena and New Lenox, although the Tinley depot was reported as being the target for the most vandalism.

At other times woodwork has been chipped by knives and debris placed on seats.

G. W. Jackson, station agent, warns vandals the Tinley Park police are keeping close watch on the railroad depot and when caught they will be held liable for all of the damage and will have to make restitution.

The Tinley Park station depot was decorated three years ago. It is a clean, comfortable waiting room for the convenience of commuters. The station agent, who is proud of the building, wishes to point out that tampering with the telephone directory and the phone is a serious offense. It is placed there for the convenience of citizens, many of whom must use it in an emergency during the hours when public phones are not available.

Some newspaper boys in Mokena are flirting with death by riding their bicycles too close to incoming trains on the Mokena station platform. Train engineers have complained of this dangerous practice. Suction from the moving train or a foot slipping from the pedal could mean tragedy.

Since Sept. 1955, more than $3 million in assistance has been given by 60 national Red Cross societies in response to 12 international relief appeals from disaster stricken countries throughout the world.
